Now

With F.M.L.

Central Texas has looked the past few weeks a bit like "tornado alley" in that flat wheat state of Kansas. Burnet and Hubbard east of Waco were clobbered, but not leveled a few weeks ago.

This enormously flat part of the world, particularly from here west in Texas, is an ideal playground for tornadoes.

But the people are friendly, not in quotes which apply to other parts of the country, but genuinely willing to talk about tornadoes or newspapers or what ever. There's still a willingness to look at things the way they are and to try doing something about them.

A good percentage of Texans are still the way most people across these United States used to be, until they scrunched up and mistook high wages and high rises for a superior life.

Because of communications and fine Texas highways, people are the same wherever you talk tornadoes or newspapers, beyond vocal inflection and dress.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Yes, north and west Texas has looked like Tornado alley in recent weeks, whether city or flat countryside.

Cities, for example, are as subject to these "twisters" as open country and small towns. It is a relatively minor problem among all the problems cities must plan for.

Cities have been known for years to exceed practical effectivenss as political and social entities when they pass a half million population. But new ones are being planned and phased in with limits imposed on size and broadest consideration given for elements older ones could not have anticipated.

Except tornadoes, like the one that crushed Waco in 1953. The city planners of that day couldn't anticipate that one. Nor would they likely expect one this day.

But they are building things differently, even small new cities.

ADOPTION STORY - Marvin Ray McCulloch is shown with his pet, a miniature half-poodle which has adopted a kitten. The dog's puppy was born dead and "she grieved so much" according to Mrs. McCulloch, but taking care of a baby kitten has changed the dog's outlook on life.

Area Roundup

Tax Exemptions Removed

WACO

City Tax Director F. E. Murrell is mailing notices to 10 local clubs and lodges, advising them the long standing tax exemption on their buildings and other real estate is being removed. The action is based on a ruling of the Texas Supreme Court, which held that lodge halls and other buildings used for private meetings and ceremonies are subject to ad valorem property taxes.

Phone Rate Increase Sought

ROSEBUD

The city of Rosebud has retained a lawyer to represent the city in arbitration with Texas Telephone and Telegraph Company on May 8. The council has agreed to hear a proposition from the phone company to increase rates in the city. In 1956 the city council allowed a phone rate increase of about 30 percent. Again in 1968, the city alloted an increased amounting to about 40 percent.

City Celebrates Birthday

LAMPASAS

This month marks the 100th birthday for the city of Lampasas and a giant birthday party is being staged today (Monday) at City Hall. The party features activities for all visitors and party sponsors invited all to attend. A giant cake, complete with a genuine running water spring will be on display. Birthday party officials say the cake is the largest ever displayed in Lampasas.

Trustees Turn Down Exemption

GEORGETOWN

The Georgetown school trustees turned down a request for $3000 minimum exemption of homestead taxes to persons 65 years of age and older. Trustees said they would have to raise taxes to make up the loss, which they said could be either $26,400 or $43,680 depending upon whether the senior citizens would have to continue to pay .72 per $100 valuation on the bonded indebtedness which was voted before the exemption amendment was passed.

Storms Rake Rockdale

ROCKDALE

Turbulent spring weather dumped 3.38 inches of rain on Rockdale residents during the past week, high winds uprooted a few trees and downed a lot of limbs, but power and telephone troubles were reported minor. Hail, about mothball size, fell for about three minutes Saturday and again on Tuesday but roof damage from the wind and hail was apparently minor.

City OKs Adjustment Clause

HEARNE

The Hearne city council had adopted a fuel adjustment clause that will allow the city to pass on to consumers the additional costs incurred during times of natural gas curtailment. The measure had been originally proposed in January as a result of soaring costs the city has been having as Hearne has turned to outside sources to provide adequate electricity.

Amtrak To Meet On Reroute

TEMPLE

Amtrak voted in February to reroute the Chief June 10 from Fort Worth to Dallas and Houston, eliminating Temple and Central Texas. The commissioners and a group called the Association of Interested Rail passengers have requested that the Chief would continue on the present Santa Fe railway route through Central Texas.

Moss Charged On Two Counts

Charges of assault with intent to murder and assault with intent to rob have been filed in Justice of the Peace court by County Attorney Charles Smith against Norris Eugene Moss, for his part in the attempted robbery of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keith.

The attempt was made last Saturday night on the parking lot of Keith's Minimax. Moss was shot by Keith after he shot at Keith first. Moss has been released from a Temple hospital where he was tranferred after being arrested by Cameron police.

Bond was set at $15,000 for each charge.

Jeans Are Black Market Item

By Vincent Buist

Genuine American jeans are the hottest line now being peddled in the second-hand markets of Soviet cities despite police action to stamp out speculation.

They sell for a standard black market price of 100 roubles (about $120) a pair in the used clothing markets of towns like Odessa, Baku, Lvov, Moscow and Leningrad. This represents a profit of more than 1,000 per cent which is split up between the "importer," often a sailor -- and the black market hawker.

Ownership of a pair of American jeans brings its own problems -- chief among them a high risk of loss.

A young Frenchman in Moscow who went to a city swimming pool dried off and went to retrieve his clothes, only to find his American jeans had disappeared. Fortunately, in their place, someone had left a pair of tattered Russian pants.

Much the same misadventure befell a young Russian student who changed in his gymnasium for a workout and also discovered that his jeans had exercised an overwhelming attraction for someone else. He had to wait until his mother came by in a taxi with a spare pair of pants.

Jeans are popular among youngsters throughout the eastern bloc and the Polish state clothing industry has tried to meet the demand by producing its own version.

But only genuine American jeans will meet the standards of the Soviet market place.

Bellbottoms are preferred over the other variety.

If a lad in Moscow receives the wrong kind he is likely to spend the next 48 hours soaking his jeans in water, with stiff boards inside the bottom of the legs to try and achieve a modified bellbottom effect.

But almost anything foreign which is either of good quality or a novelty -- or both -- sells well in the towns here.

Men's patent shoes also fetch up to $120 and there is a steady demand for Japanese wrist watches with large dials -- as well as western ties, nylon jackets and multi-colored shirts nylon jackets and multi-colored shirts.

For the younger schoolboy who has not yet graduated into the jeans class the great attraction of the market place is the chance to buy western chewing gum.

A stick of chewing gum sells for 150 kopecks (60 cents) and the craze shows no signs of petering out. In practically any school a boy or girl who produces a packet of chewing gum can count on instant popularity.

Authorities frown on the existence of black market peddlers in city market places but have to admit that it is virtually impossible to stamp out entirely.

The markets -- tolkuchkas in Russian -- are liable to be shut down if the police find black marketeering becoming too blatant.

Soviet industry has made great strides in meeting consumer demand but it still lacks the range, quality and attractivenss of some western products.

In Numerous Majors...

About two weeks ahead of similar reports in NEWSWEEK and TIME, your Herald of March 29 reported an alien space probe scanning earth's part of the universe for a possible landing site.

This is typical of early news breaks found through Reuters News Agency, international and national news auxiliary to your Herald's city news room, which processes information from hundreds of sources.

This particular feature was run in lead position on page 1 of that edition for several reasons.

Primary among them was to assure that other intelligent life must exist beyond earth and science fiction and to convince Cen-Texans they are just as subject to unpredictables as anyone else on this small planet earth.

Reuters is noted for past news processing and delivery because of computerization. It serves this non-daily well, the foregoing example one of the best thus far.

Another occurred in June, 1971, when a Herald executive was waiting for a plane in Detroit and happened to buy a copy of the Chicago Tribune. In that edition was a Reuters story precisely covering the same topic as one that earlier appeared in your Herald.

Point is Reuters is good, reliable, fast and in your Herald. And in numerous of the major newspapers of the Western world.

'Very Interesting.....'

Texas Highway Dept. trucks will again join the city's annual clean-up drive, which last spring brought in tens of tons of debris and worthlessness.

The event should well be re-enacted, perhaps in a royal flush in spades. Dents in earlier community unkemptness are being made with these major slashes at poor housekeeping.

Once the habit sets in, it is easy.

Almost as easy as getting fined during the city's new "get tough" approach to community cleanliness, which had largely been ignored for years.

Why not join the fun? See how many trucks can be broken down in the run for the dump grounds with more tons than the year before.

With the Texas Highway Dept. joining in, the city's trucks at hand and a lot of stuff to be hauled, it could make a routine cleanup drive very interesting.

The Family Lawyer

"Show Me Your License"

Ernie's temper began to simmer when he was stopped by a police roadblock on his way home from work. Asked to show his driver's license, Ernie grudgingly complied. But the next day, he filed an "indignant citizen" suit to have the practice halted.

In a court hearing, he said:

"Our streets are supposed to be free. What right do they have to stop me when I haven't broken any laws?"

However, the court ruled that the roadblock was legal.

"It is in the public interest," said the court, "that officers make periodic check-ups on the qualifications of those who operate motor vehicles on the highways. Constitutionally prescribed freedoms are not unbridled licenses to defy the orderly conduct of society."

Still, although police do have the power to check licenses, they must not abuse that power. In another case, officers had a hunch that a certain car was carrying contraband whiskey. Stopping the car ostensibly to check the driver's license, they found and seized the whiskey—in plain sight on the back seat.

But this evidence was eventually thrown out of court because of the way it had been obtained. The judge said the police had used their power to check licenses as a "mere subterfuge" to get around the restrictions on search and seizure.

In one unusual case, a motorist kept his license in a locked glove compartment. When an officer asked for it one day, he couldn't find the key—and finally had to pry open the lock.

The policeman gave him a citation on the ground that the license had not been "in his immediate possession."

But the court decided that it could not so rule as a matter of law. The court said that, since drivers' licenses have become such an important means of identification, keeping them safe in a locked glove compartment was "not abnormal."

Hermann Sons Summer Camp Opens June 3

SAN ANTONIO

Junior members of local Hermann Sons Lodges throughout the state, who will be between the ages of 9 and 14 when the Hermann Sons Youth Summer Camp in the Hill Country at Comfort opens June 3, are being urged to write for camper application forms, James C. Wicker, camp director, reported.

About 2,000 Hermann Sons boys and girls are expected to apply.

Wicker may be reached at the Grand Lodge, Sons of Hermann, P. O. Box 1941, San Antonio 98297, or through telephone Area Code 512 - 226-9261.

Written requests should contain the junior member's full name, mailing address, and the name and number of the local lodge with which the applicant is affiliated.

Some 22,000 Hermann Sons children have been provided with a week of camping at the fraternal institution since it opened in 1954.

The 1973 camp free for junior members is $15 for the week, all meals included. However, youngsters who have earned merit points by bringing in two new members during the past year will attend for only $5.

Open Meetings Start For Constitution Committee

By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN

"If we go through an intellectual debate on a new Constitution for Texas, and the Legislature turns down our recommendations, we will be trained as competent lecturers for high school civics classes."

That was the rationalization of Wales Madden, Amarillo attorney, and member of the new 37-member Constitution Revision Commission. He spoke before the Panhandle Press Association on the tedious chore before the Commission, and invited editors and publishers to attend the first public hearing of the Commission on April 25 in Amarillo.

"We will hold 18 public meetings throughout Texas", Madden told his Amarillo audience, "and we'll be hard pressed for time to get the new draft of the proposed constitution to the Texas Legislature by November 1, 1973."

The Texas Legislature becomes a ConCon in January 1974, and has been charged by the voters to write a new constitution by May, 1974.

There will be no changes in the Texas "bill of rights" -- Madden pointed out.

The Texas Constitution is the longest in the nation -- five times longer than the U. S. Constitution. Voters have approved 200 amendments (out of 317 submitted) to the document since 1880.

"If the new constitution is not approved," he added, "we predict that we'll have 200 more amendments approved by the year 2,000."

Several Texas House members attending the Panhandle Press meeting said they believed that the voters would approve the constitution -- as submitted by the Legislature.

Madden predicted that the Speaker of the House of Representatives would be the presiding officer of the ConCon in 1974 because: "the House has more votes than the Senate on the decision."

"It will be a 'peoples' document," he concluded, "a document of 'all seasons.'"

BUSY LEGISLATURE

Returning from a four-day Easter holiday this week, the Legislature is faced with a hurry-up schedule and a mountain of work before its late May adjournment deadline.

The House plodded for days through stacks of mainly-foredoomed amendments before passing its $9.7 billion appropriations bill.

A $9.5 billion version of the state budget for 1974-75 meanwhile zipped through the Senate finance committee and was expected to pass quickly and smoothly.

Since both houses were ready to bow to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's demand for a no-new-taxes appropriations bill, little hangup is seen for budget conferees in closing days of the session.

Main differences in the House and Senate spending bill lie in the area of public welfare, and that is a fast-changing field, considering federal funding laws are subject to Washington agency interpretation.

While the budget remains the principal job unfinished, there are numerous other major pieces of legislation awaiting action. They include:

*Code of ethics and lobby control strengthening.

*Election measures.

*A sweeping variety of environmental bills.

*Penal code revision.

*The newsmen's "shield law" to protect information sources, which is stalled in a conference committee, with conferees at odds over whether courts should be empowered to force disclosure.

*Overhaul of the school finance system to benefit poor districts -- a job which almost certainly will be left to a later legislature.

ALLOWABLE HELD UP

Texas Railroad Commission for the 14th straight month set the May oil allowable at 100 per cent of potential.

Chairman Jim Langdon said gasoline stocks were down 10 per cent from last year -- or at 189.5 million barrels as of April 13.

Ten of 14 major crude buyers requested the same output for May as in April. Three requested less and one, more.

Exceptions to the 100 per cent allowable are East Texas output for May as in April. Three requested less and one, more.

Exceptions to the 100 per cent allowable are East Texas field (86 per cent); Tom O'Conner (70 per cent) and some small fields (80 per cent).

COMMITTEE REPORTS

A House Investigating Committee named two years ago to investigate the scandal marked Sharpstown banking bills of 1969 handed in a belated report and six recommendations, five of which already have been passed on by the House.

The Committee's new recommendations urged that speakers of the House not have personal legislative legislative programs.

Other recommendations included an ethics code for public officials, a strong lobby control act, pre-filing of bills before sessions, making it a misdemeanor to divulge information on grand jury proceedings before official action is taken, and adequate advance posting of bills for hearings.

The five-member panel said it is regrettable "the big fish" in the Sharpstown case was granted immunity from prosecution and the "the cloak of suspicion was improperly and unfairly thrown over the shoulders of several honorable and hardworking members of the House, resulting in the loss to the State of Texas."

NEW JOBS

By Thomas F. A. Plaut, Ph.D.
Acting Director
Division of Manpower and Training Programs

There are many new kinds of jobs—and more are developing all the time—in the mental health field. The needs for manpower are so urgent in all kinds of agencies, from psychiatric hospitals to community mental health centers, that new opportunities now exist for both young and old to make important contributions in mental health.

Formerly most people thought that only psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and nurses were needed in mental health work. Perhaps some still think this way.

But it is far from true. Certainly we need more of all these and other kinds of highly-trained professional people, particularly in research, teaching, and top administrative positions. The challenges and opportunities in the four fields mentioned are, indeed, greater than ever; and recruitment is the word in each of them.

Yet there are burgeoning new opportunities. These new jobs range in requirements from a four-year or two-year college degree to a high school degree or less. Many are in community mental health programs and are found in smaller cities and towns and rural area settings as well as in major urban centers.

One of the missions of the National Institute of Mental Health manpower program is to provide support for projects to develop new job fields and to train people to enter them.

Through such support, for example, a number of the 1,000 community colleges around the Nation are providing special courses and training opportunities. These programs lead to well-paying mental health jobs—often at the end of only two years of schooling. There also are training projects underway in mental health centers, psychiatric hospitals, and various urban and other agencies for neighborhood workers, community mental health aides, technicians, and case aides.

The goal is to give those interested in such work special training in mental health so they can take up a career suited to their particular education and abilities.

In many of these jobs, education is not so important as is the interest and potential of the individual.

With some 19,000,000 people in the United States suffering from mental illness and with the mounting number of social problems (from alcoholism to crime and violence), we desperately need more manpower and new kinds of jobs to strengthen vital programs and to make them more effective.

Polish Student Movement Evolves Into New Union

By Trevor Wood

WARSAW

Poland's leadership is worried that the student movment has been moving away from communist ideological training.

These fears are thought to have been behind the merger of the country's three student organizations into one socialist union of Polish students at a recent congress.

The union, representing the quarter of a million university students, is expected to place renewed emphasis on political education which officials have admitted has been neglected in the past.

They mention the case of one of the most popular of the three student organizations how swallowed up by the new union, the Association of Polish Students.

The association, with a membership covering about 90 per cent of students, was active in arranging social activities and seeking improvements in student conditions apart from its ideological training program.

"It was clear that some parts of the associations program were more popular than others," a student official said.

The association has now been merged with the university membership of the Union of Socialist Youth. Although the unior has nearly two million members mainly among working youth, its membership included only 30 per cent or less of university students.

It concentrated at first on social - political education, holding frequent discussions and debates on ideological questions, and only later moved into sicla activities.

Also in the new organization is the Union of Socialist Rural Youth, which had limited activity on the campuses.

The transformation into a mass organization will apparently help the process to greater social - political education by integrating their various activities.

It will also remove some friction which has arisen in the past between the separate bodies in their contacts with university authorities.

Members of the students association, used in the past to a more social - orientated movement, raised several objections to the merger.

But they were assured that the association's social activities -- ranging from a newspaper and organized visits abroad to a jazz festival and satirical club shows -- would continue.

The association's status as a trade union will also be transferred to the new body.

This status gives the student five years trade union seniority on taking up employment, with subsequent medical, holiday and retirement benefits.

The official also explained that such activities as arranging discounts for books, meals and theatre tickets would be available to all students, whether members or not of the new body. But it would obviously be to their advantage in later life to sign up.

The reorganization coincided with announcements of improvement in student benefits, including a wider spread of grants to take in a larger number of students.

The minister of science, higher education and technology, Prof. Jan Kaczmarek, also announced new minimum salaries for students starting work and shortened training periods in industry.

Students will be able to join a housing list while at college. Previously they could join only after graduation, and had to wait about five years longer for housing than those who started work after secondary education.

The improvements, to be introduced in stages, also include loans to cover monthly savings contributions for housing, with repayments exempted for those gaining good examination results.

Busy Handymen

Some 20 million Americans spend as much as $9 billion a year on do-it-yourself projects, one industry source estimates.

Lack Of Pesticides May Cause Drop In Cotton

Cotton production in the United States may someday drop by 10 percent. Producing an acre of cotton could cost almost $10 more than it does now.

It's hard to believe, but it could happen. The figures result from a study by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station on the effects of withdrawal of different pesticides currently used in cotton production.

Jim Casey and Dr. Ronald Lacewell, two TAES economists, arrived at the results by using a computer program to compile and "average" the opinions of more than 100 entomologists, agronomists and economists.

Cotton was chosen for study because out of the 140 million pounds of pesticides used on croplands annually in the U. S., most are used on cotton. The withdrawals, they said, had a significant effect on yield and costs.

For example, when the organochlorine pesticides family, which includes DDT, was withdrawn, per acre yields in non - irrigated farms dropped by 10 percent in Louisiana, Arkansas and all of the southern states east of the Mississippi River.

Yields declined by three percent or less in Texas and Oklahoma. Arizona, California and New Mexico were not affected at all.

In terms of yield, most irrigated farms were affected least of all. For irrigated farms, the yield decline due to withdrawal of organochlorine was usually 2.5 percent. However, the Rio Grande Valley of Texas and the Southern Panhandle area, both heavily irrigated, did suffer losses of seven to 10 per cent.

Dryland, or non-irrigated farms, felt increases of 30 cents to $6.00 an acre in their production costs. The increased costs were due to substituting other pesticides for the organochlorines

Overall, when organophosphates and organochlorines were withdrawn, output of cotton changed the greatest in the region from Central Texas to the Atlantic. It amounted to a drop of about 10 percent for withdrawal of organochlorines, eight to 23 percent for organophosphates and up to 40 percent for both.

GENERATION GAP

We definitely need a generation gap--without it, parents would be doing the same foolish things children do, says Dr. Jennie Kitching, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Vows Repeated For Hejl - Terry

Miss Kathryn Lanell Hejl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hejl of Rosebud, became the bride of Walter Stephen Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Terry of Cameron, Saturday, April 21, at four p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waymond Gerza in Ben Arnold. The Rev. Ike Hargrove performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. N. M. Blackburn of Rockdale presented wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk organza, English net, and imported lace. The bodice featured a net yoke with re-embroidered lace tapering to a fitted waist fastened at the back with tiny satin-covered buttons. Lace formed the Victorian collar of the gown; and full Bishop sleeves were of net and lace ending in wide button-trimmed organza cuffs. The skirt front was sprinkled with lace medallions, and her detachable train had a wedge shape insert of lace with bow trim. Her elbow-length veil of illusion fell from a contour headpiece of re-embroidered lace encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouqeut of white daisies.

Miss Judy Pelzel of Rosebud was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue chiffon over peau de soie. Her headdress was a blue satin bow set in pale blue nylon illusion net. She carried one blue carnation.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Carolyn Ehler of Temple. Her ensemble was identical to that of the maid of honor.

Kin Griffin of Cameron was best man, and Johnny Fuller, also of Cameron was groomsman.

Mrs. Waymond Gerza and Chip Hejl of Rosebud, brother of the bride, greeted guests at the door, and Mrs. Charlie Belson registered them.

The wedding reception was immediately after the ceremony. In the house party were Mesdames Charlie Belson of Temple, Ernest Moore of Cameron, and Waymond Gerza of Ben Arnold, sisters of the bride; and Mesdames Bob Wolkowicz of Houston and Ivan Vogelsang of Austin, sisters of the groom.

After a wedding trip to Galveston, the couple will live in Cameron where both are employed. Mrs. Terry is secretary and receptionist at Royal Seating Corporation, and Mr. Terry owns and operates Terry's Body Shop.

The bride is a 1972 honor graduate of Rosebud-Lott High School, and has attended Temple Junior College. The bridegroom is a 1969 graduate of Yoe High School in Cameron.

MRS. WALTER STEPHEN TERRY

Miss Brockman is majoring in music education and Neal is studying business. The wedding is planned for May 25 at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Gene Arnold of Bowie, Md. and the Rev. John Shepard of Angleton will officiate. The groom, whose mother is the former Dorothy Jane Harrell, is the grandson of Mrs. S. M. Harrell, 403 East 7th., Cameron and Mrs. Clyde Neal of Temple.

Cost Control Needed To Protect Income Levels

"Farmers and ranchers will have to exercise severe cost control to protect their income levels in 1973," says an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This year agricultural producers can expect higher gross receipts, but production expenses are increasing rapidly."

According to Wayne Hayenga, "Farm production costs rose more than 7 percent across the nation last year. And the trend may continue in 1973."

Farmers profited last year because of higher than normal prices they received for their produce. "Unless price increases keep pace with increases in production costs, farmers will be struggling to make ends meet," contends the economist.

The three major cost items for farmers -- seed, feed and livestock -- increased by 10 percent in 1972. Even higher increases can be expected this year as the demand for these items continues to increase as farmers expand their production. "This is especially true in Texas where farmers and ranchers use more high-cost items than the average producer across the nation," points out Hayenga.

Other major contributors to increased farm expenses are the high cost of hired labor, interest and rents. Rents paid to nonfarm landlords jumped 13 percent in 1972. Last year's farm labor bill increased 8 percent and a sharp rise is expected again this year. The possibility of legislation to boost the minimum hourly wage for farm workers would further add to the farm labor bill, especially in high labor using areas such as the Texas Rio Grande Valley.

Hayenga also points out that the current Phase III economic program may further contribute to rising farm costs. The program has relaxed price controls on many farm inputs so that an increase in demand of these inputs is likely to send prices upward further than they advanced the past year.

Lone Star Has Record Earnings

DALLAS

At its annual meeting in Dallas, Lone Star Gas Company President, W. C. McCord, told shareholders that the company had record consolidated net income of $39.2 million for the 12 months ended March 31, 1973, amounting to $2.63 a share.

"This earnings rate," McCord said, "is 14 percent greater than the $2.31 a year earlier, and continues the earnings growth momentum commenced some four years ago."

Net income for the first quarter of 1973 totaled $21.9 million, an increase of approximately $1.6 million over the same quarter last year. Earnings per share of common stock rose to $1.47 for the quarter just completed compared with $1.37 for the like period a year earlier.

McCord noted that improved heating weather during the first three months of 1973 contributed significantly toward the improved results. The number of heating degree days was still 4 1/2 per cent below a normal heating season but was 19 per cent better than last year's first quarter.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF CAMERON:

SECTION 1. Effective with the first gas bills rendered from and after thirty (30) days from the date of final passage of this ordinance, the maximum general service rate for sales of natural gas rendered to residential and commercial consumers within the city limits of Cameron by Lone Star Gas Company, a Texas corporation, its successors and assigns, is hereby fixed and determined as follows:

First 1,000 cu. ft. or fraction thereof $2.444 Gross; $2.20 Net

Next 3,000 cu. ft. @$1.-189 per Mcf Gross; $1.07 per Mcf Net

Next 6,000 cu. ft @ 1.067 per Mcf Gross; .96 per Mcf Net

Next 15,000 cu. ft @ .989 per Mcf Gross; .89 per Mcf Net

Next 75,000 cu. ft @ .922 per Mcf Gross; .83 per Mcf Net

All Over 100,000 cu. ft @ .889 per Mcf Gross; .80 Mcf Net

No gas bill will be rendered to any residential or commercial consumer served under the above rate not consuming any gas during any monthly billing period.

ADJUSTMENTS

The amount of each net monthly bill computed at the above-stated rates shall be subject to the following adjustments: Plus or minus the amount of any increase or decrease, respectively, above or below the 42.5 cents per Mcf level in the intra-company city gates charge as authorized by the Railroad Commission of the State of Texas or other regulatory body having jurisdiction for gas delivered to Lone Star Gas Company's distribution system for sale to residential and commercial consumers where such changes are caused by increases or decreases in the cost of gas purchased by the Company; plus an amount equivalent to the proportionate part of any new tax, or increased tax, or any other governmental imposition, rental, fee or charge (except state, county, city and special district ad valorem taxes and taxes on net income) levied, assessed or imposed subsequent to April 1, 1972, upon or allocable to the Company's distribution operations, by any new or amended law, ordinance or contract. Each gross monthly bill shall be adjusted proportionately. Company, at its option, may forego the application of any adjustment if such adjustment would result in an increase in the monthly bill; however, failure of Company to apply any adjustment shall not constitute a waiver of Company's right from time to time, or at any time, to make any adjustment, in whole or in part, in any subsequent current monthly bill that may be applicable to such bill.

Net rate shall apply to all bills paid within ten days from monthly billing date; gross rate shall be applicable thereafter.

The above rate is applicable to each residential and commercial consumer per meter per month or for any part of a month for which gas is used at the same location.

In addition to the aforesaid rates, Company shall have the right to collect such reasonable charges as are necessary to conduct its business and to carry out its reasonable rules and regulations in effect.

SECTION 2. The rate set forth in Section 1 may be changed and amended by either the City or Company furnishing gas in the manner provided by law. Service hereunder is subject to the orders of regulatory bodies having jurisdiction, and to the Company's Rules and Regulations currently on file in the Company's office.

SECTION 3. It is hereby found and determined that the meetings at which this ordinance was passed were open to the public, as required by Texas law, and that advance public notice of the time, place and purpose of said meetings was given.

PASSED AND APPROVED on first reading on this 3rd day of April, A.D. 1973.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

NEARLY 400 CENTERS

Every State in the union now has at least one comprehensive community mental health center underway within its borders.

With the award of an Institute center grant to Alaska's Gateway Mental Health Center in Ketchikan, Alaska, all States, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico are now participating in the drive toward home-based treatment and prevention of mental and emotional illnesses.

Moving toward a total now of nearly 400 centers, the program has a goal of 2,000 by 1980.

Centers already funded, about half of which are in operation, will make community-based mental health services available to more than 60 million Americans in cities, suburbs, and rural areas across the Nation.

Centers are eligible to receive staffing grants to cover part of the salaries of professional and technical personnel. Construction grants assist with costs of building or renovating facilities.

The grant in Ketchikan helps pay the cost of staffing the center with a psychiatrist, a psychologist, a psychiatric social worker, a psychiatric nurse, and other personnel needed to provide mental health services for the mountain-rimmed Ketchikan Gateway Borough in southern Alaska.

The new center occupies the first floor of the Ketchikan health center building operated by the Aslaka Division of Health. Some services, including short-term impatient care, will be provided at the area's general hospitals in Ketchikan and Petersburg.

Before the new center's beginning, only the acutely mentally ill in the region could receive any kind of psychiatric treatment—by being transported 1,000 air miles away to the Alaska Psychiatric Institute in Anchorage.

In many other areas of the U.S., new centers are bringing services to people for whom psychiatric care was never before available outside mental hospitals.

The centers program, for the first time on a broad scale, offers Americans in all walks of life a comprehensive range of services and continuity of care designed for minimal disruption to their daily lives.

As this community mental health center movement is shaping up, there is strong community participation and involvement in creating these centers. Communities are gathering together their own resources and, with some Federal support, developing and directing their facilities and services to suit their own needs.

'Gallant Hand '73' Set For Fort Hood Monday

FT. HOOD

Over 30,000 soldiers and airmen from posts across the U. S. are now assembling here to participate in Gallant Hand '73 which begins this coming Monday. Gallant Hand '73 is the large scale Army - Air Force training exercise held by U. S. Readiness Command.

Primary mission for Readiness Command is to maintain a reserve general purpose Army and Air Force combat force to augment combat force to augment other U. S. commands wherever or where ever they may be needed.

The exercise scenario will involve a mythical American command needing quick augmentation with additional combat forces. This "overseas" command will be reinforced by a joint task force consisting of a U.S. based armored division and support units as well as Air Force tactical airlift, fighter and reconnaissance units. Once in place, these units will then be employed in mock combat operations.

Major Army Forces involved in the exercise come from Ft. Hood include the 1st Cav. Div. and the 2nd Armd. Div. Supporting Army units are participating from coast to coast.

Gallant Hand '73 Air Force units will be operating from Texas bases at Dyess, Bergstrom, Kelly, and Sheppard, as well as Holloman and Cannon Air Force bases in New Mexico.

Approximately 3,735 troops and 4,600 tons of materials are being airlifted into Ft. Hood from 20 bases around the country. More than 235 sorties by C-5A Galixey and C-141 Starlifter aircraft under the Military Airlift Command are scheduled to land at Grey Army Airfield at West Ft. Hood.

Army and Air Force National Guard and Reserve Forces will come from Alabama, California, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Tennessee.

Gallant Hand '73 is the second in a new series of large scale exercises sponsored by U. S. Readiness Command. The first was Gallant Hand '72 conducted here last year with 23,000 participants.

Harbours Inducted Into SAR

B. F. Harbour of Rogers and his oldest son, Bruce Dallas, were inducted into the Heart of Texas Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution in Salado at Stage Coach Inn Saturday at the quarterly meeting of the Chapter.

Edwin C. York of Temple president, conducted the business meeting, the program and the luncheon. The speaker was Captain Ron Bliss of Temple, who was introduced by Col. Gene Tarbritton of Fort Hood who had been a prisoner of war in Germany himself, in 1944.

Captain Bliss was warmly received by the audience of Sons of the American Revolution and their wives and friends. Mrs. Bliss was with the Baptain.

The Harbour family lineage started in America bout 1700 when Thomas Harbour came to Virginia from Wales. Esaias Harbour, in Halifax and Henry Counties, Virginia, was the war patriot of the family. There are six members of the D. A.R. in Texas whose Revolutionary War ancestor was the same Esaias Harbour.

GI Home Loans Are Increasing

GI home loans in January rose 4 percent higher than a year earlier, sustaining a six-year generally upward trend.

The Veterans Administration reported 30,600 loans were approved in January compared to 29,600 in January 1972. The December total was 32,600, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

On a yearly basis, loans last year climbed to nearly 300,000, about a 25 percent increase over 1971. Included in the total were 5,500 mobile home loans, a 162 percent hike over 1971.

VA loans in the area served by the Waco Regional Office increased 12 percent in the past year with 15, 189 home loans approved. Mobile home loans in the area numbered 381.

Bigham Explains Tax Bill

At least one alternative method of funding the Texas public school system piqued public interest last week after it was introduced to the House of Representatives in Austin. The bill, House Bill 948, sponsored by Williamson of Tyler and Bigham of Belton related to appraisal of real property for ad valorem taxes for education purposes.

In an effort to clarify the complexities of the bill Representative Bigham released the following statement today from Austin:

"Due to recent public inquiry and concern in regard to House Bill 948, I feel that a full explanation as to the intent of the bill is in order.

"The bill was introduced as a vehicle to provide a means for collecting and distributing possible additional funds which would have been needed to finance public education in Texas if the Rodriquez decision had been upheld. The substance of the bill was arrived at when at hearings held around the state it became apparent that tax havens existed in certain oil and timber rich areas of the State. The bill was designed to 'get at' those tax havens and thereby equalize the burden being placed upon small homeowners, farmers and ranchers.

"The concern and misinterpretation of the bill arises in that it speaks of 'full value and taxation' (excepting farm and ranch lands). This language is necessary for it is in line with Article 8, Section 1 of the Texas Constitution and Article 7114 of Vernon Civl Statues.

"The bill would not cause us to tax at full face value as some people had interpreted."

Leaders Attend Scout Meet

Thirty - two community leaders from Rockdale, Buckholts and Milano turned out Thursday night at a kickoff dinner for the Tejas District's Together '73 program aimed at generating more Scouting units.

Chairman Ken Smith of Rockdale said representatives attended from Hope Lutheran Church in Buckholts, Young Homemakers Club of Milano and Aycock Association, Noon Lions Club and Meadowbrook Baptist Church in Rockdale to learn the mechanics of sponsoring a Scout unit.

He said preliminary organization steps were taken to set up four new Cub packs and a new Boy Scout troop by June 1. Volunteer adult Scouters throughout the three-county Tejas District assisted representatives of the prospective sponsoring institutions.

"Volunteer advisors will continue working with the churches and service clubs until each has a chartered Scouting unit," Smith said. "We were pleased with the turnout and feel that a lot of area youngsters will profit from the interest and efforts shown by these organizations."

He said the next step will be follow-up meetings between the advisors and sponsoring institutions. The first are scheduled this week for the Young Homemakers Club of Milano and Aycock Association of Rockdale.

Bentsen Bill Would Phase Out Gas Price Ceiling

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen today introduced legislation providing for phased de-regulation of natural gas prices.

"I believe this bill is a moderate solution to problems caused by a regulatory system which was never intended by the Congress when it enacted the Natural Gas Act of 1938," Bentsen said.

"This regulatory system has maintained artificial price ceilings which have resulted in depressed exploration and development of new natural gas reserves," he continued.

Senator Bentsen's bill would remove Federal regulation of the price interstate pipelines pay producers for gas newly dedicated to interstate commerce or gas from wells drilled on or after April 6, 1972.

It would not alter existing provisions in long-term contracts between interstate pipeline companies and natural gas producers. But, when these contracts expire, the new price would be set by competitive market rather than direct regulation.

Gas producers affiliated with the pipelines to which they sell would remain subject to Federal Power Commission regulation. However, the regulated price would be based on prices paid non-affiliated producers in the area of the sale.

Bentsen pointed out that there is growing support for a program of phased deregulation, such as his. He noted, for example, that all three Commissioners of the FPC favor such a plan.

"Our current policy of regulation was intended to protect the consumer from high prices, but instead it has contributed to a shortage of natural gas that will result in even higher prices."

Legislature Cites Highway Efforts

AUSTIN

The Texas Highway Department's 37-year effort to develop the State's rich tourist potential has been cited by the 63rd Legislature.

Both houses approved a resolution saluting the Department's Travel and Information Division. Governor Dolph Briscoe Friday affixed his signature to it.

The House Concurrent Resolution was introduced by Rep. Dave Allred of Wichita Falls. Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon sponsored the measure in the Senate.

The resolution noted that the Highway Department pioneered many travel development ideas and techniques which have served as models
